1. Slide bead over hook. The smaller hole against the eye.

2. Attach the thread behind the bead. Place the silver wire tucked into the bead and on top of the hook shank.

3. Wrap the shank, with the wire on top of the hook shank, to the midpoint of the hook curve.

4. Wrap the thread with tight smooth wraps from the end of the body to the bead. Thin is better.

5. Wrap the silver wire forward with 5-6 evenly-spaced wraps and secure with some thread wraps behind the bead. Break off the wire tag by bending the wire back and forth until it breaks off at the shank.

6. Apply some additional thread wraps behind the bead to secure the wire tag end and to build up the space behind the bead.

7. Attach a small strand of flash behind the bead as an attractor.

8. Tie off, whip finish and apply head cement. Trim the flash so that it is about the same length as the hook shank.
